

ABSTRACT

[0040] The present invention provides a heat spreading connector suitable for use with electronic components including those using land grid arrays and pin grid arrays and a method for its use. The connector of the present invention includes at least one dielectric layer and at least one thermally conductive layer

HBG\87842.2